“To realise the pure essence and intensity of glass and ceramics requires both order and artistry. By reinventing the traditional skills of glassmaking new innovations are made which inspires me to create bold, energised artworks.”

Jessamy Kelly

Jessamy Kelly is a glass and ceramic artist, her studio work is based on the hand crafted sensitivity of craft practice. She uses techniques such as diamond cutting and engraving to shape and texture her sculptural art glass and ceramics. She harnesses light by cutting away the glass and ceramics to reveal the inherent luminosity of the materials. These techniques create a style which works subtly with the simplicity of her blown and cast glass forms and slip cast ceramics. The way light passes through glass and ceramics to reveal an inner luminosity intrigues and inspires her to combine these two mediums. Jessamy’s work shows balance, precision and great delicacy. Working with simple forms to create a soft sensitive aesthetic, her sculptural glass and ceramics are inspired by organic and naturally repeating forms and draw inspiration from diverse natural forms, the local landscape and the human body. Her work has been exhibited widely throughout the UK as well as internationally in France, the Czech Republic, the Netherlands and in the United States.

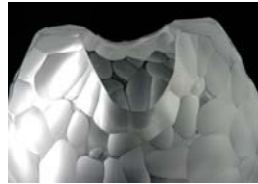

In 2001, Jessamy completed her Bachelor of Arts degree in ‘Glass and Ceramics’ at the University of Sunderland and went on to complete her Masters in ‘Glass Design’ at Edinburgh College of Art, in 2002. This involved an Industrial placement at Edinburgh Crystal as a student glass designer. This opportunity allowed her to develop a creative and experimental approach within the reality of a commercial environment. Jessamy worked as an in-house glass designer for Edinburgh Crystal until 2006, when she decided to focus completely on her own studio work and business. She continues to work on a freelance basis as a glass designer for industry; this collaboration informs and influences her studio work in a unique and innovative way. Jessamy has run her own art glass business ‘Jessamy Kelly Glass’ since graduating in 2001 and went on to set up Juo Ltd with designer Joanne Mitchell in July 2006. Juo Ltd is a contemporary art glass brand that produces fused glass wall panels; both businesses are currently based at the National Glass Centre, in Sunderland. In 2009 she completed her practice based PhD at the University of Sunderland. This postgraduate research examines the combination of glass and ceramics in a hot state, within her studio practice as a means of artistic expression and offers a potential new route of practice for other artists working in glass & ceramics.
